The difference between lightroom and photoshop The original Photoshop was based on Lightroom. Adobe bought Lightroom developer Aperture after acquisition of Macromedia. Adobe combined the Lightroom features with the fledgling Photoshop Classic and released Photoshop CS2 in 2003. Adobe released Photoshop CS2 as a standalone application, but Photoshop CS2 was still based on the Lightroom file format and system. In 2008, Adobe released Photoshop CS3 as a standalone application (CS3 was an update based on the Photoshop CS2 code base). In 2012, Photoshop CS4 was released as a "Creative Cloud" subscription. This let Adobe's customers be able to use their Photoshop license anywhere and buy individual updates at a lower price than their monthly subscription price. Adobe had a problem with the term "Lightroom." A number of plugins have been developed for use with Photoshop for Lightroom, but the old Lightroom program name still carries some weight and it doesn't sound so great to have your computer lightroom be light yet your images be pictures. Adobe settled on the Photoshop name. The official name is Adobe Photoshop, a new name and a new first letter (from S to P). CS stands for "Creative Suite" and the number for each version (CS3, CS4, CS5, CS6). Photoshop is available in three editions: Creative Cloud, Photoshop CC, and Photoshop SE. Creative Cloud or Photoshop CC represents the "high end" Professional option for Photoshop. It's Adobe's higher-priced subscription. Photoshop SE represents a lower-priced "lite" option of Photoshop. With the release of CS

Q: How to setup build scripts in TFS to build and create environment variables automatically (via.bat and.ps1) I need to setup my build and test scripts to run with the following parameters to create an environment variable automatically (I know I need to use.bat and.ps1, but I can't seem to get them to work). I am not good enough with batch files to figure out what is necessary to have this work. I need to be able to do this for any environment variables: Name: vcs/myname/env - Exists Value: myvalue1 The environment variable is set with the following command: c:\wbin\com.microsoft.vcs.buildmanage>set VCS_VERSION="v3.5" I need to be able to run my scripts with the following parameters: Name: Build.bat - Exists Value: myvalue1 For example, my script is set in the default branch. My first script looks like this (I have not formatted the code): call "C:\wbin\TfsBuildManage\TfsBuildManage\Common.ps1" call "C:\wbin\TfsBuildManage\TfsBuildManage\Environment.bat" call "C:\wbin\TfsBuildManage\TfsBuildManage\Tools.bat" The current error I get is: Exception calling "Set" with "1" argument(s): "Value must be between 1 and 65535." A: In batch files, values can be defined as a hexadecimal value. (see :set /? at the start of the cmd window) set VCS_VERSION="0x0000001e" When the variable is used, the string is implicitly converted to a hexadecimal value. (see :set /? again) For %var:=% concatenation, if you want to convert a variable to a hexadecimal value (e.g. to set a variable to 012: set var=%var:=% After you have converted the value, you can set it using call "C:\wbin\TfsBuildManage\TfsBuildManage\Environment.bat" VCS_VERSION "myvalue1" How to Maximize
